to both Muslims and Hindus had failed at the. All Parties conference in Calcutta (1928). After this, although the Congress contributed to have Muslims, among its leaders as well as its rank and file, the Muslims League drifted progressively away from the Congress. It also managed to strengthen its claim to represent the Muslims as a community. At its Lahore session (1940) under Jinnah's presidentship, the League adopted its historic Pakistan resolution. During the following 7 years, with the help from British, it worked resolutely to realise its objective. Ouestions: What was the tragic part of freedom?
